MISS MOBERLEY WEDS MR. GRAVES

Well Known Young Merchant Surprises Host of Friends by Marriage Wednesday.

Friends throughout Central Kentucky were pleasantly surprised to learn that last Wednesday morning Miss Minnie Moberley and Mr. Jack C. Graves, both of this city, had been united in marriage.

The marriage took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ed. Grubbs, in Winchester, at seven o'clock. The bride-to-be went to Winchester the day before and was met by the groom, who, together with his business partner, Mr. R. E. Punch, and the officiating minister, Rev. J. S. Wilson, of the local Baptist church, motored to that city the following morning. Before the ceremony a most delightful wedding breakfast was served by Mrs. Grubbs.

After the ceremony the couple left for a short trip to Louisville and Cincinnati. Mr. Graves who is a member of the firm of Punch, Graves & Co., is one of the best known young men in this section of the State having been a leader in the social life here for several years. He is extremely popular with a large circle of friends. His bride is a daughter of the late Caleb Moberley and a member of one of Montgomery's oldest families. A girl of charming personality and winning manner the man of her choice is certainly to be congratulated upon winning such a woman for a life companion. The Advocate extends best wishes.

MISS EVANS MARRIED

News has been received here of the marriage of Miss Florence Rny Evans to Mr. W. D. Hartsook, at the home of her parents in Mississippi. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlton Evans and is well known in this county where she formerly lived. She is related to the Prewitt family. Many friends in this, her old home country, will wish the young people every happiness.

Has it ever occurred to you that it would be money in your pocket to glue your eyes—both of 'em—to the ads in this paper every week?

It's a fact, and others know it and are profiting by that knowledge, whether you are or not.

From now on you will find this paper full of ads of the thousand and one things needed for the Christmas holidays. The very article you want will probably be mentioned somewhere in the ads, and it will be decided to your interest to know which store can sell it to you to the best advantage.

Luck continues to knock at the door after Opportunity has passed on. Luck is the difference between success and failure. Luck is unjust because the lucky man does not always deserve his luck. Luck is a gambler. Luck is a false friend because it will desert its most favored ones. Luck is a myth. It may appear to favor individuals, but the armies which fight the hardest are most apt to win. Its only one thing is luck faithful, it is always on the side of those who are the steadiest workers.

CLIPPINGS FROM THE SNAGTOWN TORCHLIGHT

Walter Parker, of Hot Water Springs, was up before Constable John Dashner Monday charged with having dazzling lights in front and dim lights in the rear as he passed through Snagtown Sunday night.

"Big Jack" says that since Ernest Crane commenced showing his wife confessional attention her affection for him is about as thin as the skirt she wears.

Kentley Thomas, while out driving in his car last night, dropped in on us in the middle of a game, and accepted our invitation—in the morning, before he left, between hiccoughs he mentioned stopping in Philadelphia, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Denver, Chicago, New York and other prominent places in Arkansas with his Company, "The Microbe of Love," in which he plays the backward kid. Benny will be seen for the last time on the stage next month at the Auditorium, as he feels old age overtaking him and that the new car needs all of his time.

Dannie Shannon is the promoter of a new and certain device for disposing of bedbugs and the public is all smiles. The trick on the bug can be played better where a feather bed is used. A large opening is made in the bed ticking, and it is altogether natural for the bug in his nightly frolics over the bed to go into the hole. When he gets in the hole is immediately sewed up, and having no way to get out, the bug starves to death on feathers.

Leonard Bonlton is building himself and family a storm cellar. Leonard says the cellar is entirely too small to hold any kind of a storm.

The Snagtown postoffice proved to be one of the coolest places in Arkansas the past summer, the flu having drawn all the warm weather up the chimney.

Dr. R. T. Cook went to the field yesterday morning and was surprised to find his mule almost totally enveloped with morning glory vines.

For a few days the mule has been standing by a sapling eating a pile of shucks and did not notice the approach of the vine.

There is always some man sitting around that can tell you just what you want to know. These men are the greatest competitors the public library and the unabridged dictionary have.

J. F. Cross announces that he has discovered new evidence to uphold his argument that the world is round, from the fact that when a wagon and team comes over a hill the ears of the mule are seen first.

Dry weather has been prevailing in this section for several weeks. It is believed that a few good soaking rains would do away with this drought.

LOOK IN THE GLASS

If you feel grouchy and out of sorts and the world seems warped and twisted from all viewpoints, look in the glass. Your own reflection will set you thinking and wondering if perhaps it is not you instead of the world that is warped.

When something goes wrong and you feel like cursing or kicking the cat there is nothing quite so efficacious as looking in a glass. You see yourself as you are and not as perhaps you think you are. All of your hard lines and your ill humor are reflected by the faithful glass and the moment a fleeting smile begins to creep over your face the glass will magnify it and glorify it until in but a short time you will be forgetting entirely your ill humor and will be smiling from the pure joy of living.

THE REAL KENTUCKY

With bankers, business men and statisticians reckoning crops, foreign trade and bank reserves in billions we are prone to overlook the millions right at our doors and cast envious eyes on our neighbors, who perhaps display the same weakness, and thus we fail to reap the full enjoyment of our real possessions.

Kentucky is known far and wide as the leading tobacco-growing State of the United States, and that means of the world, but that Kentucky ranks high in other crops and in the output of coal and timber and possesses latent resources of inestimable value, is not fully appreciated, especially right here at home.

Of the 1,098,800,000 pounds of tobacco raised in the United States this year, Kentucky grew 378,840,000 pounds, or more than one-third of the total production of the country. This was twice as much as the production of any other State, North Carolina ranking second to Kentucky, with 186,950,000 pounds. Virginia, with 157,619,000 pounds, came third, and Ohio, with 87,029,000, came next.

In corn, Kentucky, with 119,088,000 bushels, ranks tenth among the States; in apples, with a crop of 3,750,000 barrels, the State is seventh. In oats, potatoes, hay and many other minor crops the State occupies a conspicuous position.

It is estimated that the coal output of the State this year will be in the neighborhood of 25,000,000 tons, giving the State fifth position, the States ranking higher being Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Illinois and Ohio in the order named.

In the value of the crops of the State corn ranks first, being estimated as worth to the farmers $83,361,600; tobacco, with an estimated value of $32,000,000, ranks second. The coal output has an approximate value of more than $25,000,000 right at the mines.

Every important crop of the State except wheat shows a substantial increase over 1914. The corn crop is 27,838,000 bushels larger than last year and the tobacco yield exceeds 1914 by 14,840,000 pounds. All crops concerned it is doubtful if any State in the Union has made any better showing than Kentucky this year.

The production of principal crops in the State this year compares with 1914 as follows:

	1915.	1914.
Wheat, bu.	8,620,000	12,540,000
Corn, bu.	119,088,000	91,250,000
Oats, bu.	4,539,000	3,673,000
Potatoes, bu.	1,408,000	2,250,000
S. potatoes,	986,000	1,050,000
Tob., lbs.	378,840,000	364,000,000
Apples, bbls.	3,750,000	3,000,000
Peaches, bu.	1,320,000	1,980,000
Pears, bbls.	86,000	103,000
Hay, hales.	1,215,000	712,000

With our coal deposits barely touched, with millions of feet of fine timber standing and with a vast acreage of soil that only needs drainage or nursing to make it yield far more abundantly than the soil described in the alluring circulars of land agents in other States, we have right here at home our opportunity. With good roads and a just tax system capital will begin to pour into the State, railway building will take on renewed vigor, and soon we will begin to hear of former Kentuckians pulling stakes in other States and yielding to the fascinating strains of "My Old Kentucky Home."

We have long ago quit raising hell in Kentucky and gone to raising as diversified and productive crops as any State can boast, but somehow we have never yet succeeded in waking up to the fact. It's time that Kentucky ceased advertising vice that have been overcome and let the world know of virtues that few other States can match.—Louisville Times.

WHEN BORROWING IS GOOD

Reading good books is a commendable trait in any person. Borrowing them is equally commendable when you are not in a position to buy, provided you are as prompt in returning as you are in borrowing.

But many people are excellent borrowers and damnable returners. They borrow everything and return nothing, until in time they become known as chroniclers and are shunned as religiously as the hornet or theumblebee.

Any right minded citizen would be only too willing to disseminate knowledge and add to the pleasure of his brothers if he could only feel that his book would find its way back to his own shelves without his having to resort to a constable and a search warrant.

Most "borrowing pests" really do not realize that they are such, and would indignantly and sincerely protest any such accusation if made to them. And yet their persistent forgetfulness in returning borrowed articles hangs the odious title of "pest" upon them so tightly it is almost impossible to throw it off.

I will borrow today and return tomorrow, you will always be able to borrow again the next day.

WHERE NATURE MAKES LIFE WORTH LIVING

Speaking of an ideal life, there is nothing better or more independent than a life on a well regulated farm in a prosperous section of the country.

In the cities and towns we are engaged in a constant game of competition one with another, always confronted with the possibility that the commercial rise of the other fellow means our own downfall. But not so on the farm, where every man is a life and a producer and a consumer unto himself.

The farmer raises his grain, and his foodstuffs, and his hogs and cattle and chickens and eggs, and by his own efforts alone his table is supplied the year round and his surplus gives a sufficiency of those articles not produced on his own acreage. It makes no material difference to him whether his neighbor is successful or a failure, for the rapid rise of one does not necessarily imply the financial disintegration of another.

Hard times and panics may sweep over the land, strewing the path of life with the corpses of the commercial wrecks, but the farmer moves steadily onward and is the last man on earth to feel the pinch of want. His crops continue to grow and thrive, his stock fattens and becomes meat for his table, his fields and his gardens furnish him the sustenance of life, and he feels, as he is, the one man on all of this earth who is absolutely independent of all other men or combinations of men.

When the country is staggering under the weight of depression, and buying is slow and prices are down, he still has the satisfaction of knowing that his own table will be well supplied while people in cities and towns may be looking for bread for the next meal.

We hear many people decry a life on the farm because of the hard work and long hours it entails, but these same people seem to overlook the fact that there is no other business in life which does not require its labor and its toll and its brain racking and nerve destroying race in competition with others of its kind. And always before those engaged in commercial pursuits is the dread spectre of hard times or strangulation at the hands of a successful competitor.

Young men of today who are comfortably settled on the farm, or are just completing their education preparatory to a life career, should remain right where they are and never leave the green fields of the country. The great cities will offer them white lights, and dissipation, and debauchery, and failure in nine cases out of ten, and death will find them wishing to God they had never strayed from the comforts of the old fireside. But not so the country.

It offers them a life of freedom, and mirth, and usefulness, with plenty to eat and to wear, and health, happiness and a clear conscience.

Now that the summer's work is over and the time is at hand when young men begin to long for the quieties of city life, we suggest that you spend your idle moments in studying the latest and most improved methods of farming. Turn over the pages of your farm journals, and the bulletins of the agricultural schools, and perfect yourself for a winning fight in extracting greater wealth from the mother earth, the source from which all wealth springs. Stick to the farm. It is the greatest spot on earth.

Let us spend the coming winter months in devising ways and means of making next summer the most prosperous one in the agricultural history of this community. There are many ways in which we may increase the output of the acreage with but little added expense, but we will have to get together and compare notes to accomplish it. Who is for expansion and greater prosperity?

A WHITE WAY

It has been suggested that we ought to follow the lead of cities all about us and have a white way. Any one who has been as far as our neighboring city of Winchester recently, knows the fine appearance a white way gives a city and as Mt. Sterling is not built on the "stringtown on the pike" order, but is very compact, it would be especially easy for us to have a white way on Main or Maysville streets, or both. We are not acquainted with the original cost of such an improvement, nor with the cost of maintenance, but hope this suggestion will cause the Business Men's Club, or some progressive individual, to investigate and if the plan is feasible to put it on foot.

As this is the tax paying season with us, we want to remind those who complain of the amount they pay, that in England a man who earns $2500 a year, pays, in addition to his ordinary property tax, an income tax of $210, which increases rapidly on larger incomes. In Russia, it is even higher, as a man who only makes $250 a year must pay $5.00 income tax, to his "Little Father."

In the language of our worthy daily contemporary, The Louisville Times, our majority is "not so deep as a well, nor so wide as a church door, but 'tis enough, 'twill serve."

There is a lesson in the recent election returns from which the Kentucky Democracy ought to profit.

ENTERTAINMENT AT CHURCH

The next entertainment in this winter's course at the Christian church will be a series of lectures by J. B. Briney next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights, November 16th, 17th, and 18th. His subjects will be "Science and the Bible," "The Bible and Evolution," and "The Bible and Higher Criticism." Mr. Briney has long been a conscientious figure amongst forensic speakers. He is a debater of note and a staunch defender of the faith. He is a pleasant, clear, logical and forcible speaker. After these lectures were delivered to the faculty and students of Johnson Bible College, the President of that institution, Ashley S. Johnson, bore this testimony:

"Two years ago this winter he (J. B. Briney) delivered a series of lectures in our chapel and nothing that I have ever heard or read surpasses them. Indeed, some of them were beyond all comparison, the home of her parents in Mississippi heard or read. At times his eloquence was sublime, and the sublimity of it, the glory of it, the beauty of it, the power of it, grew out of his simple faith in the plain old gospel, which was and is and evermore shall be the power of God unto salvation."

As usual in the entertainments at the Christian church, these lectures will be free to the public, and a hearty invitation is extended to all who can hear them.

Present "Damaged Goods"

A special showing of "Damaged Goods" at the Broadway Theatre, Forty-first Street and Broadway, New York City, was given by the Mutual Film Corporation Monday, September 27th. Invitations were issued to the trade and lay press, physicians, ministers, sociologists and City and State officials.

"This is a film with a mission. It will carry its powerful lesson to all who have eyes to see. The play as presented on the speaking stage, reached its thousands. The film will reach the millions.

"It is with no intent to belittle the speaking stage that I insist that the real message of "Damaged Goods" is told more clearly and forcibly on the screen.

"I am sure that the production will find a welcome and appreciation among all thinking people. Those who do not think will have to after they see it."

This remarkable play will be shown at The Tabb Theatre some time next week. Watch the papers for the date.

For Rent

As executors of S. A. Duff, deceased, we will on November the 15th, 1915, at the Court House door in Mt. Sterling, at one o'clock p.m., offer for rent to the highest and best bidder the following: About 95 acres of good grass land, 6 miles from Mt. Sterling on the Spence pike, plenty of water. House and garden adjoining the property will also be rented. Extra good fencing on both pieces of property. Everlasting water.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Mrs. T. Foster Rogers gave a delightful Five Hundred party at her home on Elm street Friday afternoon in honor of her guest, Mrs. S. A. Thompson, of Lexington. There were about thirty-five guests present and the affair was a delightfully enjoyable one. Delicious refreshments were served to the guests after the interesting games.

Mr. E. Lawrence Fussett entertained ten of his friends at his home on Holt avenue last Friday evening with a delightful turkey supper, the first of the season. The supper was one of the most bountiful that has filled a table here in many years and the guests were won in the praise of the hospitality of their host. After the supper the guests were served with cigars and the evening spent in reminiscences. Mr. Fussett's guests were Dr. J. F. Reynolds, Dr. R. E. May, Dr. David H. Bush, Dr. George M. Holton and Messrs. William M. Henderson, William A. Sutton, Richard M. Smith, Roger D. Barnes, C. L. Lawrence, and W. Hoffman Wood. The table and dining room were decorated with flowers.

Beautiful Reception

Mrs. Charles D. Grubbs and Miss Hazel Grubbs entertained last Thursday afternoon at their home on Howard avenue with one of the most delightful receptions ever given in this city. Mrs. Charles C. Turner of Frankfort assisted the hostesses in receiving. Mrs. Grubbs was very handsome in dark blue chiffon trimmed in fur while Miss Grubbs wore a dainty gown of green taffeta combined with lace and chiffon with rosebud ornaments, and Mrs. Turner was lovely in black lace with gold trimmings. The pretty house is well adapted to entertaining and with its artistic decorations of ferns, smilax and chrysanthemums, presented a beautiful scene everywhere. Quantities of brilliant yellow chrysanthemums were used in the reception hall, the parlor where the guests were met had decorations of pink chrysanthemums and the doorway leading to the library was outlined with smilax and pink chrysanthemums and was a lovely picture. The library had ferns and white chrysanthemums for the color scheme where delicious frappe was served by Misses Mary V. Tabb, Lucy Clay Woodford, Emily Robinson and Allee Young. Mrs. Charles Hazelrigg played a lovely program on the Victrola during the afternoon and Misses Emily Hazelrigg and Henrietta Greene received the cards. In the dining room an elegant salad course was served, Mrs. J. A. Vansant, Mrs. John Winn, Mrs. Henry Prewitt and Mrs. Pierree Winn assisting. The large round table was of special beauty with a lace cloth and had as a center piece a tall silver filigree basket overflowing with Killarney roses and tied with white tulle. Around this were silver candlesticks with white candles covered with pink shades and compotes of Mrs. Greene's candies and almonds. Others assisting in entertaining were Mrs. Fannie Goodpaster, Mrs. Scott Goodpaster, Mrs. W. H. Strossman, Mrs. Dillard Hazelrigg, Mrs. J. O. Greene, Mrs. R. A. Chiles, Mrs. C. C. Chenault, Mrs. W. S. Lloyd, Mrs. Allie Robinson, Mrs. Lawrence White, Mrs. C. W. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Mary W. Lockridge and Misses Mary E. Turner, and Hattie Owings. The hours were from 2 to 4 and more than two hundred accepted the gracious hospitality of the hostesses.

We do not believe that many Democrats in Montgomery "sulked" Tuesday. HOW TO SUCCEED

Twenty clerks in a store, twenty hands in a printing office, twenty apprentices in a ship yard, twenty young men in a village—all want to get along in the world, and expect to do so. One of the clerks will become a partner, and make a fortune; one of the compositors will own a newspaper and become an influential citizen; one of the apprentices will become a master builder; one of the young villagers will get a handsome farm and live like a patriarch—but which one is the lucky individual? Lucky? There is no luck about it. The thing is almost as certain as the rule of three. The young fellow who will distance his competitors is he who masters his business, who preserves his integrity, who lives purely and cleanly, who devotes his leisure to the acquisition of knowledge, who gains friends by deserving them, and who saves spare money. There are some ways to fortune shorter than this old dusty highway; but the staunch man of the community; the man who achieves something really worth having—good fortune, good name, a serene old age—goes in this hard, dusty road.

Keep a strict account of both profits and expenses; be careful to keep the first in advance of the last until the point of independence is reached, and you will most certainly avoid the dreadful fate heretofore so common to nine-tenths of the foolish voyagers upon uncertain seas of business.

Let your industry never grow weary; keep your faithful servant, economy, ever on guard, and should no unforeseen disaster overwhelm you, your voyage will most surely be a successful one.

Confidence breeds success, and success inspires greater confidence and the ability to perform that which we undertake.

Some very good people still believe that only the devil wants us to have a good time.

THE COLLAPSE OF THE SUFFRAGE MOVEMENT

I am the poet of the woman the same as the man,
And I say it is as great to be a woman as to be a man,
And I say there is nothing greater than the mother of men.

—Walt Whitman.

No sooner does the proposition to confer the ballot upon women take practical form in the Central States and the Eastern States than it is rejected by an overwhelming majority. What Missouri and Minnesota did, New Jersey, New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania have done, after a long campaign. The only hope for the success of such a proposition is that it will not be so discussed as to arouse public interest, and to bring out the arguments on both sides and make the men face it as a serious change in the structure of American government.

It is well enough for these devoted advocates of suffrage to say that the battle has only begun; but that is not the lesson written in these figures. Voting is a method of registering public opinion. It is not a part of the mechanism of government. The freedom of the women is not involved in it. None of their property rights is involved in it. They could do no more with the ballot for the advancement of the ends they have in view than they can without the ballot.

The progress of the past fifty or one hundred years in the condition of women; the removal of unjust restrictions, which were handed down from medieval times and from the days of feudalism, have all been accomplished without universal suffrage. They have come in response to a growing intelligence and an enlightened public opinion. To this growth and this enlightenment women have contributed their part, and they have spoken with more force and with more persuasion than they could speak if they were given the ballot.

Men have shown, even in this discussion of suffrage, a desire to do everything that women want done. If the men could be convinced that a majority of the women wanted the ballot they could get it; but there is no reason to doubt that if the subject were voted on by the women alone, the majority against it would be larger than that recorded last Tuesday.

There is no good cause that women do not promote by intelligent discussion, investigation, and at proper times, by agitation. In this way they influence public opinion, they enlighten the public mind, they quicken the public conscience, and the result of it all is recorded just as faithfully by the men when voting alone as by men and women when voting together.

There are many things that have been urged by the women that have not been fully considered, and the
